Mortgage Protection

The newsletter from Evermore Capital

Amongst the current turmoil, we've seen a sizeable increase in mortgage interest rates.

In light of this, an analysis by the Resolution Foundation has suggested that for over five million households, annual mortgage payments may rise by an average of £5,100 between now and the end of 2024. Although, £1,200 of this amount was attributed to the impact of the mini-budget much of which has now been shelved.

(Source: Resolution Foundation, 15 October 2022)

A further consequence of the financial crisis following September's mini-budget is that we now have a new Prime Minister (and a different Chancellor), which has helped to calm the financial markets. At least for now. But high inflation still remains (at around 10%), and this will continue to have an impact on interest rates.

So, is it now time to reassess your own mortgage borrowing needs? Of course, those on fixed rate deals would remain, if wanted, at their agreed interest rate until the end of their deal period.

Stamp Duty decrease

As set out in the box to the right, various property purchasers will now benefit from paying less tax than they expected.

Base Rate rise

Upward inflation has been a contributory factor in the Bank of England Base Rate rises, which currently stands at 3%. Whilst it is not the only determinant that influences mortgage interest rates, it can have a knock-on effect. And recent comments from the Governor of the Bank of England hint at further rate rises. ## Mortgage Rate rises

The rising trend in interest rates will be a shock for many. Although, with a degree of calm returning to the markets, some lenders have reduced their rates. Albeit they're still a lot higher than a year ago, and even against what was on offer back in the summer. Plus, for those lenders that haven't already factored this in, the subsequent Base Rate rise may have an impact on some of the deals on offer.

Who should be talking to us?

- Those looking to purchase their first home.
- Those who have a mortgage deal that's due to end in the next 6 months or so.
- Those borrowers who simply want to obtain a new deal at the current interest rates and/or raise more funds.
- Those who need more living space, either within their current home, or are looking to move.
- Those who may be worried that further cost of living rises (and possible property price falls) could markedly impact on their mortgage affordability calculations into the future.

Here's how to use the mortgage payments calculator: A £100,000 mortgage over 30 years, charged at a 5% interest rate would cost  $100 \times £5.37$  (for Repayment) = £537 per month.

 $\mbox{\ensuremath{^{\star}}}$  Excludes any payments to a separate savings scheme, to help pay off the capital amount borrowed.

This calculator only provides a guide to monthly payments and does not guarantee eligibility for a mortgage. The actual amounts that you may have to pay may be more or less than the figures shown.

Securing a suitable deal

Future Base Rate decisions will have an impact on the marketplace, as will the Autumn Statement, when the Chancellor sets out the tax and spending plans on 17 November.

Understandably though, it is at times like these that our skillset can really be utilised to your advantage.

For example, some homeowners may view the combination of rising costs, and higher interest rates with great concern. In which case, when looking for a new mortgage deal, they may add selling up and downsizing into the mix.

Of course, the circumstances for each borrower will be different, and that's why it's vital that you take advice.

House prices

In the midst of all this, UK house prices continue to rise, by 7.2%, on average, in the year to October 2022. But the general view is that price rises will ease further over time, with possible falls.

However, on a positive note, price rises over the last few years may offset any fall, as many existing homeowners have built up their property asset value. For example, in the last two years alone, the average house price has increased by almost £50,000.

This 22% rise in value could also give borrowers access to a 'comparatively' better current deal - as the loan-to-value required today could be lower than what was needed, say, 2, or 5 years ago. Also, house prices over the long-term have been incredibly resilient, and in the last 30 years, for example, we have seen the average house price rise from around £52,000 to about £273,000.

That's more than a fivefold increase. (Source: Nationwide, House Price Index, October & Q3 2022)

Lender requirements

As has been the case for a good few years, borrowers will be well aware that lenders continue to apply stringent controls on both the 'evidencing of income' and if the borrower meets the 'affordability' criteria.

Remortgaging early?

In a broadly rising market for interest rates, some borrowers may feel that it is beneficial to pay the early repayment charge to ensure they can get what they believe is a better rate now, rather than waiting until their deal period ends.

No one knows where rates will be in the future, but talk to us first, as we can run through the options. We could then assess if it might save money, or cost you more.

This is just one reason why you should talk to us...

With so much to consider, it can be quite confusing. For our part, we have the expertise, and are working in this market-place day-in day-out (and currently many evenings!).

We also know how swiftly the market moves, with deals being pulled by lenders with minimal notice - plus, we're tenacious, and will work hard on your behalf.

You may have to pay an early repayment charge to your existing lender if you remortgage.

■ Your property may be repossessed if you do not keep up repayments on your mortgage.

With the current Cost of Living crisis, your existing income stream may already be stretched to cover mortgage costs, ongoing living expenses, holidays, etc. So, imagine the impact if an income earner was then unable to work (and earn) for a long period, or worse still, died.

At its most basic level, it's vital to have a suitable amount of life cover in place, to help pay-off the mortgage, should the unthinkable occur.

However, what is more likely to happen during your working life, is that you suffer a serious illness, or injury, and are unable to swiftly return to work, if at all.

There are products on offer to deliver a lump sum payout if suffering a 'specified' serious illness (critical illness cover), or deliver a regular income (until you return to work, or retire), in the event of a specified illness or injury (income protection).

What if you already have cover in place?

If you are looking for savings across your household expenditure, an insurance policy that you feel may never be claimed against, might seem one way to cut costs.

However, do talk to us first before tak-

Do policies PAY OUT?

Yes, they do, with 98% of all claims being paid out in 2021.

Life Cover

- 99.5% of all claims were paid out.
- Average payout of £80,485 (term), £4,125 (whole of life).

Critical Illness

- 91.3% of all claims were paid out.
- Average payout of £67,951.

Income Protection

- 86% of all claims were paid out.
- Average payout of £23,380.
- Average length of claim could be around 6 years.*

ing any action, as it may prove to be a false economy, plus there might be alternatives that enable you to still have a degree of protection cover.

As with all insurance policies, terms, conditions and exclusions will apply.

Coming to the end of your mortgage deal rate period?

Across 2022 and 2023, around 1.3m and 1.8m borrowers, respectively,* will see their fixed rate mortgage deals come to an end. That accounts for almost half of all fixed rate borrowers! If they don't act, they could end up on their lender's Standard Variable Rate. (Source: *UK Finance, September 2022)

Many of those borrowers are likely to face a financial shock, with the average 2-year fixed rate increasing (at the time of writing) by around a 4% interest rate against two years ago. If they were borrowing £100,000 at the average fixed rate, over 30 years, then the extra payments might be about £250 more a month. (Source: Moneyfacts, November 2022)

Cost of Living

Couple this with the rise in energy costs, and other expenses, and they have a double whammy of finding more money to pay both the mortgage and bills, than was the case a few years back.

Do we have a solution?

There's no escaping rising costs, but we can help in a number of ways:

- Ideally, don't revert to your lender's, generally, more expensive Standard Variable Rate.
- Don't wait until your deal rate ends.

  Talk to us 6 months ahead of that date.

  And, in the current marketplace we might be able to secure a more suitable deal than what may be on offer 6 months down the line.

- And we can hold your hand throughout this process.
- Helping to assess the options between staying with a new deal with your current lender, or one elsewhere.
- assist with all the paperwork.
- liaise with all interested parties: lender, solicitor, surveyor, estate agent, etc.

Please let us identify the most suitable way forward for your needs.

■ Your property may be repossessed if you do not keep up repayments on your mortgage.

With the current demands on our disposable income, imagine what would happen if a wage earner then experienced reduced earnings from being off work long-term due to an illness, or injury. Could they survive financially?

INCOME

If you found yourself in this position, some may initially benefit from financial support from their employer. However, it's only likely to be there for a defined period. Plus, there's limited state support to access, with Statutory Sick Pay at around £100 a week.

However, will that be anywhere near enough to ensure you can continue to put food on the table and a roof over your head (via continued mortgage or rental payments) - and that's just for starters.

Average lifetime earnings

Consider this; across a working lifetime, taking the average annual income of around £32,000, this could equate to about £1,500,000 (discounting inflation). This amount is well over five times the current average value of a UK home - circa £270,000.

Yet many will willingly insure their home, and sensibly take out life cover to help pay off the outstanding mortgage (as a minimum), but far fewer apply the same principles to their own income stream.

Finding the extra £s

With a Cost of Living crisis, it's quite likely that you're already looking at cost-cutting, encompassing all those little items we may take for granted, like the odd takeaway or a magazine. As part of that process, it could also be feasible to put aside some of those savings to help fund a Protection plan.

Whilst we don't expect you to give up all of life's little luxuries, cutting out just one unit each week of the items below, could save around £195 each month!

Treats	£ Cost/unit (est.)
Soft drink	1.50
Snack	1.00
Magazine	2.25
Coffee (takeaway)	3.50
Pint of beer or lager	4.00
Glass of wine (175ml)	4.25
Taxi	8.00
Cigarettes (pack of 20)	12.50
Takeaway meal	8.00
Total	Total = £45.00

Could it happen to me?

Most of us will feel that being off work long-term, and unable to earn an income is unlikely. Yet almost 2.5 million people in the UK, are currently off work due to long-term sickness, equating to around 1 in 10 of those in full-time employment.

(Source: Office for National Statistics, Labour market overview, October 2022 release)

A solution for you...

If you did find yourself in this position, then there is a protection product to utilise once any employer support, or savings, drops away, and that's an Income Protection policy.

Income Protection is a flexible product, and will generally cover up to around 60-65% of your gross income, and dependent on the type of product you opt for, it could be a tax-free monthly payout until you're well enough to return to work, retired or have died, whichever occurs first. And, if you're still working and paying premiums, you can claim against it more than once.

The product also allows you to defer payouts until you really need them (which could be for up to 52 weeks). The longer you opt to defer, then that will be reflected in a lower premium.

Alternatively, if an even lower monthly premium is better for your pocket, then you could opt for a scheme that only pays out for a specific period of time, generally one to two years (although it can be up to five, in some instances).

As with all insurance policies, terms, conditions and exclusions will apply.
